September 28, 2017 (St. Louis, MO) – The Contemporary Art Museum St. Louis (CAM) announces a new after-hours party series, Art Up Late. CAM keeps its doors open until midnight for one Friday each season for exhibition-themed celebrations. The Art Up Late premiere is a costume party inspired by Mickalene Thomas: Mentors, Muses, and Celebrities, with guests encouraged to come as their favorite mentor, personal muse, or most adored celebrity. Entertainment for the event includes a live performance by local rising hip-hop star Eric Donté, who will premiere his new EP, A Lamp in the Room, on the eve of his tour. Dance beats will be provided throughout the evening by DJ Prather. Also planned for the first Art Up Late is a costume contest with special guest judges from the St. Louis Fashion Fund, as well as a silent auction featuring artwork and one-of-a-kind art experiences. Proceeds for Art Up Late support CAM’s thought-provoking exhibitions and innovative education programs.
