February 10, 2023 (St. Louis, MO) - The Contemporary Art Museum St. Louis (CAM) presents the first major survey of Jacolby Satterwhite's wide-ranging practice in a museum-wide exhibition this spring. An innovator in the fields of 3D animation and performance art, Satterwhite explores and complicates the boundaries between human and digital experience in a series of captivating multimedia works. This exhibition traces more than ten years of Satterwhite's creative output, including 3D animated films, immersive video installations, sculptures, new media pieces, and a selection of recent paintings. Jacolby Satterwhite: Spirits Roaming on the Earth, will be on view at CAM from March 10 through August 13, 2023. As part of the exhibition opening, Jacolby Satterwhite will discuss his work on Friday, March 10th in conversation with writer, critic, and educator Sasha Bonét starting at 6:00 pm.

Mapping the artist's extraordinary creative trajectory, this exhibition explores a decade of Satterwhite's conceptual practice across multiple materials, genres, and modes of thinking. His work frequently draws on a broad set of personal and cultural influences that include video gaming, art history, mythology, and contemporary visual culture. Many of these works also incorporate references to home and family life, especially to the artist's late mother, Patricia Satterwhite, a prolific artist, writer, and musician in her own right. With these creative inputs, Satterwhite builds digital worlds of resilience and reinvention, in which virtual space becomes a new frontier for queer experience and self-expression. His intricately detailed animations and live action films of real and imagined spaces—populated by voguing avatars of Satterwhite and his friends—serve as the stage for the artist's surreal and poetic world-building.

“Jacolby Satterwhite is an extraordinary innovator in the digital art world,” said Executive Director Lisa Melandri. “We are so excited to share his groundbreaking works at CAM. Jacolby is a visionary thinker whose environments and exhibitions exist as their own worlds. We can’t wait to invite CAM’s visitors into his world this spring.”

In addition to exploring the artist’s video installations, sculptures, and multimedia works—which will span the entirety of the museum—visitors will be invited to take part in an immersive virtual reality experience created by Satterwhite. The exhibition will also be accompanied by the published monograph Jacolby Satterwhite: How lovely is me being as I am, edited by Elizabeth Chodos and Andrew Durbin with narration by Sasha Bonét; essays by Malik Gaines, Jane Ursula Harris, and Legacy Russell; an interview with the artist by Kimberly Drew; and book design by Sonia Yoon.

The exhibition is generously supported in part by the Whitaker Foundation, the Ferring Family Foundation, Hedy Fischer and Randy Shull, and Bernard I. Lumpkin and Carmine D. Boccuzzi. Special thanks to Mitchell-Innes & Nash, New York.

About the Contemporary Art Museum St. Louis

The Contemporary Art Museum St. Louis creates meaningful engagement with the most relevant and innovative art being made today. Founded by civic and cultural leaders in 1980, the Museum transformed from a small gallery into an internationally recognized arts institution, now permanently housed in a flexible, open, and inviting building designed by renowned American architect Brad Cloepfil. CAM's distinct architecture reflects the organization's values and supports a dynamic range of exhibitions, public programs, educational initiatives, and community collaborations. The only museum in the region solely dedicated to contemporary art, CAM is one of the preeminent non-collecting institutions of its kind in the United States. We are a site for discovery, a welcoming space, free and open to all. For more information, visit camstl.org.
